

Says

What have we heard them say?
What can we imagine them saying?

Thinks

What are their wants, needs, hopes, and dreams?
What other thoughts might influence their behavior?

P. Keerthiga

Recognises parties as either national or state parties based on their performance in previous elections.

Electoral manipulation can take place at the stage of voter registration

Measure by looking at the average number of terms served by incumbend candidates

Candidates switching party affiliations between elections, receives much attention

Constituencies that have the highest candidate representation

The number of seats being contested regional wise

Provides free distribution of items

Experienced candidates tend to be more protected

They use a combination of muscle, money and providing services to retain a grasp over their seat.

Significant irregularities in election data.

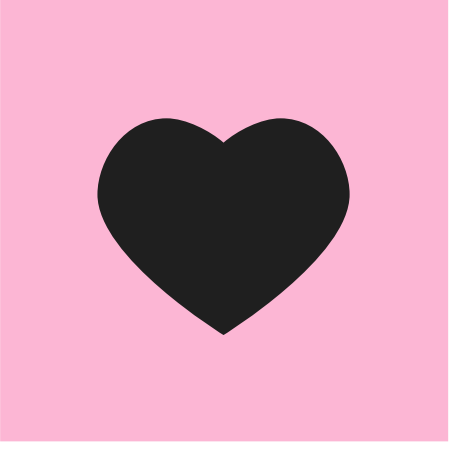

Lesser experienced candidates can be chunked out by their own parties in greater numbers,

Manifesto given is attractive

Does

What behavior have we observed?
What can we imagine them doing?

Feels

What are their fears, frustrations, and anxieties?
What other feelings might influence their behavior?